

Cornwood's Dementia Friendly Walking Route.

This is a flat walking route through Cornwood with views over Dartmoor and a bench at the end to sit and admire the beauty of the countryside. The route does go along a very quiet country lane which is very safe for walkers of all ages and disabilities.

The walk was guided by Julia Bertram from Cornwood Parish Council.

Julia was a wonderful host and the path was a delight to walk. Victor Abbot, Liz Hitchens and I enjoyed the visit, the path and the views and the refreshments in the Cornwood Inn afterwards.

It would be wonderful, if parishes could create a safe designated walking route for people of all abilities, although we appreciate that it is not always possible with the gradients in the Devon countryside. This path is an asset to Cornwood.
